It was formed in the year 2006 and during the last two decades, has proven itself to be a catalyst for industry growth. SGAI works tirelessly on several fronts with the intent of ensuring that Indian screen print businesses are better represented and showcased, not only within the country but also beyond our borders. Expanding the market for the Indian screen print industry remains a key objective. SGAI's endeavour is to open up new markets for Indian screen print businesses and help our members to connect with business communities in countries surrounding India. SGAI interacts closely with industry associations in several nations like Asia Screen Printing & Graphic Imaging Association (ASGA), European Screen Manufacturer's Association (ESMA) and Screen Printing Association of Korea (SPAK).

Supporting Association

Asia Screen Printing & Graphic Imaging Association (ASGA) was launched in 1994 due to distinctive characteristics and market needs in the Asian region. ASGA was founded to improve technical expertise, encourage mutual ties and friendship, and support cooperation and advancement in the Asian screen printing and graphic imaging industry. ASGA, right from its inception, has been a forum for screen printing operations, companies and associations to create closer ties and co-operation. Significant attention and efforts have gone into the formulation of rules, regulations, roles and responsibilities for ASGA as the premier screen printing association for the Asia Pacific region. The attempt has always been to knit closely the fabric of inter-country cooperation and collaboration and to represent Asian screen printing interests, both within Asia as well as to the world at large.

European Screen Manufacturer's Association (ESMA) was founded in 1990 as the European association of screen printing equipment manufacturers. Today, ESMA's focus lies on all industrial, functional and specialised printing applications, as well as graphic applications that lead to disruptive developments in printed interior decoration, printed electronics, plastics (IMD and FIM), textiles and glass. ESMA's objectives are to promote adoption and correct use of various specialist printing processes. This mission is realised through multiple conferences (Industrial Print Integration, GlassPrint, Textile Printing & Sustainability) and during ESMA Academy courses which deliver technical knowledge and understanding.
